Comments on Hungarian Shipbuilding Project No. 35.517.

1. I have reviewed this project again and find that there is a lot of good material in it. It is also quite clear that it should be published.

2. However, it still requires some tightening up and a considerable amount of reorganization. This should not take very much time. I have attached a suggested outline which should produce the final draft.

3. It is my understanding that the material in this paper is no longer inconsistent with the NIS on the same subject.

4. There are a few other things which should be done to this paper before it can go out. First, the tables in the text should be properly titled and the format should be cleaned up; the St/FR style manual contains good material on table format. Furthermore, these tables should be properly introduced and should be given a little more interpretation in the text. Second, the paper does not contain a clear-cut definition of the scope of the industry which we are measuring. A question remains in my mind as to whether the production and value figures include repairs or not. This could be settled very quickly.

5. I think we should leave the summary and conclusion section until after the body of the paper has been reorganized.
